Prepping for snow

The City of Independence recently announced updates to their winter storm response. This year the City has implemented an Automatic Vehicle Locating (AVL) technology which will allow us to better track where trucks have been and how they have treated streets. This will be rolled out to the public on a website which will regularly update during a storm later this winter. As part of this update the City is also moving from four street levels to three - Priority, Secondary and Residential. Priority streets will be the first streets addressed during a winter storm and then crews will work through the other two levels. Watch the video here.
